

Apply Now for Regional Initiative Councils

Modeled after national product councils, the mission of the regional council program is to convene councils comprised of ULI members to promote learning, build District Council leadership, share knowledge and expertise and encourage regional collaboration.

RICs provide opportunities for leadership and volunteer involvement in the ULI, at the regional level, by promoting excellence in programming, by fostering a culture of openness, and by sharing issues critical to land use planning and real estate development.

Councils

Carolina Trends Council (CTC) - This council explores market trends and the opportunities created by large scale development and major employers (such as corporations, universities, and medical centers). Discussion includes catalytic market transactions, economic development, capital markets, infrastructure and how developers can leverage the demand for supporting industries, housing and commercial real estate.

Rethinking Southern Cities Council - This council will explore how southern cities can best harness their growth in a more urban and authentic fashion. Discussion will center around how continuing population growth and demographic shifts and preferences will affect development patterns, infill development, adaptive reuse of historic or obsolete buildings, transportation, infrastructure and urban housing. Limited space available.

Young Leaders Council (YLC) - This council is open to Young Leader Group members that are ready to get involved at the next level of ULI. Each meeting will include professionals from the industry sharing their best practices, discussing catalytic real estate projects in our communities, and fostering regional idea exchange amongst council members.

Application Process

- Annually, ULI members are invited to apply for a Regional Initiative Council. Applications are due each November. Applicants will be notified by December 15.
- Applications will be reviewed by a regional committee with every effort to achieve professional, ethnic and industry diversity.
- RIC meetings will be held in conjunction with the Carolinas' Meeting (separate registration required) and one additional meeting as set by the RIC leadership.

Council Requirements

- All ULI members from North or South Carolina are eligible.
- Each council is limited to 35-45 members.
- Council members must have 10+ years experience in real estate and/or land use (excluding Young Leaders Council).
- Upon acceptance, council members commit to attending two one-day meetings per calendar year. The meetings will be 4 - 6 hours in duration.
- Council affiliation fees will be $250 per year. The fees will cover meeting space, breakfast and/or lunch for council days.
- Each council will elect a Council Chair and two Vice-Chairs. Leadership will be responsible for programming and membership.
- Each council member will have the option to renew annually for three (3) years. After three (3) years, the council member will be asked to reapply.
- Every effort will be made to maintain professional, ethnic and gender diverse councils.

Member Expectations

- Confidentiality: The foundation for open and honest sharing of detailed information and experience;
- Open, honest, specific information and experience: Participate openly and honestly with specific, detailed information and experience from your current real estate practice;
- No self promotion: Presentations and discussions aimed at delivering real take home value;
- Recruit the best and the brightest: Invite innovative leaders both ULI and non-ULI members as guests. Identify ways to continually add value to the conversation and make an impact in the community.